

NOTE FOR THE FILE:

On 4 February 1963 I called Miss Fox, International Division, Bureau of the Budget, in an effort to recover the documents listed herein. Miss Fox said that she would look into the matter for me and advise.

On 6 February I called Miss Fox again. She stated that her records indicated that Mr. Macy had taken the documents with him to a meeting with Colonel White on 16 January and to the best of her knowledge had left them at CIA; however, she did not have a document receipt for the material.

In an effort to trace the documents in the Agency, I contacted CTSC, USIB Secretariat and ONE TSC on 8 February to no avail. Therefore, the only conclusion I can reach is that the papers (a) are still at the Bureau and have been misplaced or (b) that Mr. Macy handed them to someone in CIA. From a technical point of view, the Bureau is still responsible for these papers and should be held responsible.

In accordance with our telephone conversation I am enclosing herewith the proposed NSCIDs as they now stand. My agreement with [REDACTED] who is coordinating them, is that you will give us any comments you care to informally and return the papers to me when they have served your purpose. He is adamant that there be no official distribution outside of the IAC until the IAC has had a chance to act on them.

SUBJECT: Proposed NSCID No. 4 - preliminary draft

The community (at the working group level) appears to have rejected the idea of separating out the detailed provisions relating to defectors into separate DCIDs. We are presently recutting two versions,

- a. a single condensed NSCID with everything in it;
- b. An even shorter NSCID than the one attached with all details put in a separate DCID.
